

Manitou County

SOUTH MANITOU.

Herald Correspondence.

Wm. Burton has friends visiting him from abroad.

August Beck raised a 30x40 barn last week, James Daily, builder.

W. W. Gordon has returned from Chicago, where he has been negotiating the sale of a cargo of gravel. He is now loading another cargo.

No rain the Fourth of July, and a very enjoyable time was had here in consequence. We celebrated the event here as customary in most places of two or three inhabitants. The thanks of our ever thankful community are thankfully tendered to John J. Gunn, who bestirred himself so thoughtfully in preparing and arranging for the "good time" which was enjoyed by every one present. Quite a number of young people were here from the vicinity of Empire, Glen Haven and Glen Arbor, and we thank them for their presence and aid in defraying the expenses which were necessarily incurred. The programme consisted of the reading of the Declaration of Independence by Martin Knudsen, declamations, orations, etc.; hurdle, wheelbarrow and potato races, and the climbing of the greased pole, which was a slippery undertaking, and a great many failures were witnessed. In the evening came the fireworks, which fairly depreciated the luster of the stars in their brilliancy. A bowery, too, was provided in which all who wished might trip the "light fantastic toe" (and nearly all tripped), and all was enjoyment

Grand Traverse Herald
July 16, 1885

Manitou County South Manitou

Herald Correspondence

Wm. Burton has friends visiting him from abroad.

August Beck raised a 30x40 barn last week, James Daily, builder.

W.W. Gordon has returned from Chicago, where he has been negotiating the sale of a cargo of gravel. He is now loading another cargo.

No rain the Fourth of July, and a very enjoyable time was had here in consequence. We celebrated the event here as customary in most places of two or three inhabitants. The thanks of our ever thankful community are tendered to John J. Gunn who bestirred himself so thoughtfully in preparing and arranging for the "good time" which was enjoyed by every one present. Quite a number of young people were here from the vicinity of Empire, Glen Haven and Glen Arbor, and we thank them for their presence and aid in defraying the expenses which were necessarily incurred. The programme consisted of the reading of the Declaration of Independence by Martin Knudsen, declamations, orations, etc.; hurdle, wheelbarrow and potato races, and the climbing of the greased pole, which was a slippery undertaking, and a great many failures were witnessed. In the evening came the fireworks, which fairly depreciated the luster of the stars in their brilliancy. A bowery, too, was provided in which all who wished might trip the "light fantastic toe" (and nearly all tripped), and all was enjoyment and good nature.

(transcript)