

WOMAN SAVES SON

But Falls in Attempt to Rescue Husband from Lake.

Traverse City, June 15.—Mrs. Thomas Thompson stood on the shore of Lake Michigan and saw her little son, who was riding with his father in a small boat, fall overboard. When her husband had jumped overboard and grabbed the child and bringing him safely to shore she saw him suddenly throw up his hands and sink, leaving the child helpless. She raced for a boat and was able to reach the boy before he went down for the last time, but her husband failed to rise.

The lifesaving crew rescued the body and worked for two hours in a vain effort to resuscitate him. Thompson was mail carrier on the Glenn Haven-South Manitou route and the drowning occurred at South Manitou Island. The supposition is that Thompson was seized with cramps or heart failure.

WOMAN SAVES SON

But Fails in Attempt to Rescue Husband from Lake

Traverse City, June 15, - Mrs. Thomas Thompson stood on the shore of Lake Michigan and saw her little son, who was riding with his father in a small boat, fall overboard. When her husband had jumped overboard and grabbed the child and bringing him safely to shore she saw him suddenly throw up his hands and sink, leaving the child helpless. She raced for a boat and was able to reach the boy before he went down for the last time, but her husband failed to rise.

The lifesaving crew rescued the body and worked for two hours in a vain effort to resuscitate him. Thompson was mail carrier on the Glenn Haven-South Manitou route and the drowning occurred at South Manitou Island. The supposition is that Thompson was seized with cramps or heart failure.

(transcript)